Psalm 119:136, 139

“Rivers of water run down my eyes, because they keep not Your law... My zeal has consumed me because my enemies have forgotten Your words.” Psalm 119:136, 139

Tolerance is the current buzz word of those people who are afraid to acknowledge any sort of standard for fear that they will be rejected and another may be offended. We are lectured that we must not hold absolute values ... especially if...

...especially if we value life...

...life in the womb.

...life over seventy.

...life impaired by illness or mental disease.

...especially if we believe the victim has more rights than the violator!

... especially if we believe that men are not basically good.

... especially if we believe that there is only one way to God!

... especially if we believe that Jesus Christ alone is that One Way!

But why do these who have forgotten God’s Word cause us to grieve? Do we grieve because we have been rejected or because our Righteous God is rejected? Do we grieve because we face persecution for our faith or because our Father’s heart is broken?

All the great intercessors of the Bible grieved over the sin of their people and even identified themselves with those same lost and immoral people!

“Rivers of water run down my eyes, because they keep not Your law... My zeal has consumed me because my enemies have forgotten Your words.”

Selah!
