Books of the Law & History

Exodus 2:24

“... and God remembered His covenant with Abraham, Isaac and Jacob.” Exodus 2:24

With today’s current lifestyles it appears that there are an unusually high number of orphans. If not orphaned in the standard sense of the word, there are multiplied thousands of children who have been hurt and left with feelings of abandonment as a result of their parent’s divorces and way of life.

However, as new creatures in Christ (2 Corinthians 5:17), we find ourselves in an enviable position, for we have received the adoption of sons, and we may now cry, “Abba, Father!” (Romans 8:15)

Should our natural heritage be something that has produced embarrassment or even hardship for us we still have cause to lift up our heads and carry ourselves with a wonderful new sense dignity for we are now “heirs of God and joint heir with Christ.” (Romans 8:17). We are now seated with Him in heavenly places and Jesus’ Father is now become our very own Father!

Father, thank You for adopting me into Your family and calling me by name.
