

“... and whatsoever they did there, he was the doer of it.” Genesis 39:22b

There is often a grave misunderstanding among the saints; these saved “by grace” and “not of works lest any man should boast” (Ephesians 2:8-9), that their work for the Gospel is somehow secondary to their belief in the Gospel.

Dear friend, our faith will always manifest itself in an act! The great spiritual giant Smith Wigglesworth once said, “faith is an act.” Indeed, “faith without works is dead.” (James 2:17). How easy it is to talk of our faith, but, it is an entirely different thing to demonstrate our faith by and through our actions. On this point the Scriptures are clear; if I merely talk of my faith I am deceived. (James 1:22). How much better off we would be, if instead of talking of our faith, we simply would act out our faith.

In this hour of history and time, the saints must become like Joseph. We must, in the remaining time allotted to us, be people of action. The days of Time are shortening and the harvest is fully ripe. What a pastor, or missionary or a Christian leader would give in this hour for workers who would make this their testimony and have it said of their reputations, “Whatsoever needs to be done, I will be the doer of it!”
